COMMENT ON STATEMENT OF REASONS FOR THE INDICATION OF ALLOWABLE SUBJECT MATTER

Sir:

In the Examiner's statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter included in the Office Action mailed on 3 May 2006 ("Statement"), the Examiner has listed certain elements which are neither taught nor suggested by the prior art of record. Applicant notes that the claims of this application are allowable based on the recitation of a combination of elements, rather than based on specific elements identified by the Examiner in the Statement. Furthermore, Applicant respectfully disagrees with the Statement to the extent it implies that certain unrecited elements are required by certain claims.

Application Number 10/821,063
Communication dated 3 May 2006

The Examiner's statement of reasons for allowance is the personal opinion of the Examiner as to why the claims are allowable, and should not create an estoppel with respect to future claim construction. See MPEP 1302.14.

Respectfully submitted,
